

A volcanic earthquake (such as an explosion) occurs at the volcanic vent and radiates acoustic waves into the atmosphere and seismic waves in the ground.

